

Personal Protective Equipment

Employers must perform an assessment of each operation in their workplace to determine if their employees are required to wear personal protective equipment (PPE). Note that engineering controls and work practices are the preferred methods for protecting employees — OSHA generally considers PPE to be the least desirable means of controlling employee exposure.

OSHA Resources

Standards	29 CFR 1910 Subpart I
OSHA Webpage	OSHA Safety and Health Topics Page: Personal Protective Equipment – OSHA Standards
Fact Sheet	OSHA Fact Sheet: Personal Protective Equipment
Other	 Download [5 MB ZIP File*]